

HERE'S A HOT ONE FROM CHICAGO

Roosevelt's "Cousin" Sells a Rich Farmer the Masonic Temple, Collects $400 in Advance and Skips, Leaving $1,600 of Easy Money

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—After riding up and down the elevators in the million-dollar Masonic Temple on an "inspection trip" Rudolph von Hagerstein was favorably impressed with the building and paid his escort $400 for a supposed option on the office structure.

He was five minutes late yesterday afternoon in meeting his newly found friend at the Grand Pacific hotel, where he was to have paid over $11,600, the balance of the purchase money. Von Hagerstein was angry and went to Captain Mahoney at the Harrison street station because his friend had not kept his engagement.

Von Hagerstein is a wealthy farmer from the potato district in central Wisconsin. He had closed contracts with dealers in the product here and had intended to return home last week, but he remained over for the memorial exercises in the Coiseum last Sunday night. While there he met the stranger who received his $400. His companion after learning that Von Hagerstein was a wealthy Hollander carried on an animated conversation in Dutch. He represented himself as a relative of the president, because he said his name was "Martin Roosevelt." That sealed their friendship.

"He seemed to have something to do with the temple," said Von Hagerstein in describing their visit to the sky scraper. "For he bossed the elevator men around and told them where to let us off and made some of them stop while they were on their way up or down. He said he was hard up for ready cash and wanted to get rid of the building, anyway, for he had to go to Washington and help his cousin now, and so would let the place go at a sacrifice. It seemed to be a good paying proposition, so I bargained for the $400 option, although he wanted $1,000. He seemed to be so accommodating by not wanting to take all that I had that I did not hesitate to take the receipt which he had offered, and he wrote it in Dutch, too. I want my $400 back or else I want that man to make good on the option."

A description of the stranger was taken and warrants will be taken out if Von Hagerstein will prosecute.

CZOLGOSZ SULLEN BEFORE HIS FAMILY

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Another unsuccessful attempt to break through the impenetrable reserve of Czolgosz was made yesterday when his father, sister and brother were admitted to the jail for a conference with the prisoner.

Throughout a conference lasting thirty minutes the convicted assassin maintained the same cool indifference he has shown in all his public appearances. Father and sister broke down when they met the disgraced son and brother, giving way to tears to relieve their pent up feelings.

The convict, while less demonstrative, was visibly affected at the meeting, but face to face with his family, upon whom he has brought disgrace, which means ruin to their hopes and prospects in life, the cold-blooded assassin expressed no regret for his crime and confessed nothing not already known by the authorities.

The family after their fruitless interview said good bye to the prisoner, probably for the last time, and departed more dejected and downcast than when they came. Unmoved, the assassin sat in his cell and watched them depart much as he does his guard when that official carries away the empty tray after his lunch. "It can be stated most positively that Leon Czolgosz told his family nothing that he had not already told the police," said District Attorney Penny after he conferred with his assistant and listened to the stenographic report of the interview. "Nothing is known by the authorities more than came out during the trial. We have absolutely no evidence of a plot. If Czolgosz had accomplices we have no clues to their identity."

The assassin will be brought into court at 2 o'clock this afternoon to receive the death sentence. He intends now to make a speech in court when asked if he has anything to say before sentence is pronounced. As soon as the scene in court is over Sheriff Caldwell will rush him to Auburn. He wants to get the prisoner out of his hands as early as possible. He will try to conceal the time of departure, but intends to get the first train available after the assassin is sentenced. Under the law of this state fixing a period between sentence and execution, Czolgosz cannot be taken to the electric chair before Oct. 28.

SENTENCE

Czolgosz Hears His Doom From the Trial Judge

Execution to Take Place the Week of October 25 at Auburn—Signs of Distress Exhibited by the Prisoner—Falls to Talk.

BUFFALO, Sept. 27.—Leon F. Czolgosz, the assassin of President McKinley, was yesterday afternoon sentenced to be electrocuted in Auburn state prison during the week beginning Oct. 25, 1901. Before sentence was passed the assassin evinced a desire to speak, but he could not get his voice above a whisper and his words were repeated to the court by his counsel.

"There was no one else but me," the prisoner said in a whisper. "No one else told me to do it and no one paid me to do it. I was not told anything about the crime and I never thought anything about that until a couple of days before I committed the crime."

Czolgosz sat down. He was quite calm, but it was evident that his mind was flooded with distress. His cheeks were a trifle pale and his outstretched hand trembled. The guards put his handcuffs on his wrists. He looked at one of the officers. There was an expression of the profoundest fear and helplessness in his eyes. He glanced about at the people who crowded the room in efforts to get a look at him. The prisoner's eyelids rose and fell tremulously and then he fixed his gaze on the floor in front of him.

At this point Judge Titus came over to the prisoner and bade him good-by. Czolgosz replied very faintly, letting his eye rest upon the man who had been his counsel.

"Good-by," he said weakly.

Czolgosz was then hurried downstairs and through the "tunnel of sobs" to the jail, where he remained until he was taken to the train and started for Auburn, the place of execution.

McKINLEY'S WILL

Main Thought is For Wife—Document Drawn in 1897 by His Own Hand.

CANTON O., Sept. 23.—Secretary Cortelyou came here yesterday to assist Mrs. McKinley in arranging matters connected with the late president's estate. Following is the text of President McKinley's will:

"Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C., I publish the following as my latest will and testament, hereby revoking all former wills:

"To my beloved wife, Ida S. McKinley, I bequeath all of my real estate, wherever situated, and the income of any personal property of which I may be possessed at death, during her natural life. I make the following charge upon all of my property, both real and personal. To pay my mother, during her life, $1,000 a year, and at her death said sum be paid to my sister, Helen McKinley. If the income from property be insufficient to keep my wife in great comfort and pay the annuity above provided, then I direct that such of my property be sold so as to make a sum adequate for both purposes. Whatever property remains at the death of my wife I give to my brother and sisters, share and share alike. My chief concern is that my wife, from my estate, shall have all she requires for her comfort and pleasure, and that my mother shall be provided with whatever money she requires to make her old age comfortable and happy."

"Witness my hand and seal, this 22d day of October, 1897, to my last will and testament, made at the city of Washington, District of Columbia."
"(Signed) WILLIAM McKINLEY."

It is given out on authority that the McKinley estate will total from $225,000 to $250,000, including life insurance of $67,000. Aside from $67,000 mentioned, the estate consists of real estate here and contiguous to Canton, and of deposits in Washington banks.

Children in the White House.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 27.—The Roosevelt children, Kermit and Ethel, who arrived in Washington with their mother, thoroughly enjoyed their first day in the White House. They were out of bed a long time before the family was ready for breakfast, and immediately began an inspection of their new home, visiting all the apartments and admiring the view from the windows, which overlook the White lot and the site of the Washington monument. After breakfast they went out with Pickney, Mr. Roosevelt's colored man servant, and under his supervision purchased two bicycles at a store on Fourteenth street. They rode the bicycles back to the White House and showed them to their father and mother. Yesterday afternoon they took a long ride on their wheels going down Pennsylvania avenue, over into the Smithsonian grounds and through the extensive mall between the national museum and the capitol. Pickney rode on his own bicycle to take care of them.

The "North Coast Limited."

Train of the Northern Pacific which created such a furor during its first season, in 1900, is again shooting back and forth across the continent in all the glory of its former days. This Crack Train of the Northwest, almost entirely new for 1901, is the epitome of modern passenger train construction. The dining car with its a la carte breakfast and lunch, and table d'hôte dinner for $1.00; the unequalled Tourist Sleeping car of 16 sections, roomy lavatories and electric lights, the first class Drawing Room Pullman with two electric lights in each section, and the palatial Observation car with two smoking rooms, buffet, barber shop, bath, library of 140 volumes, current magazines, ladies' parlor, and observation platform, all together form a train of unusual comfort, excellence, and even luxuriousness even in this day of luxuries.

Of course, broad vestibules, "team heat and steel platform" cars, and there are nearly 300 electric lights on the train baggage car and day coaches being thus lighted also. The train runs from St. Paul to Portland, Oregon, passing through Minneapolis, Fargo, Roseau, Battle, Missoula, Spokane, Seattle and Tacoma.

Connections from Duluth and Superior for Helena are made en route. Send to Chas. S. Fee, General Passenger Agent, St. Paul, six cents for Wonderland 1901, a royal book having chapter on this royal train.

FLOODS BAR BOTH.

Too Late for His Contemplated Invasion of Natal.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—A dispatch to the Times from Newcastle, Natal, says: The moment for a serious invasion of Natal, if such an idea has been in Commandant-General Botha's mind, has passed. Both the Buffalo and Tugela rivers are in flood, while Gen. Lyttleton's troops are sufficient to deal with the enemy should he elect to cross the border.

The correspondent of the Times at Cape Town says the chamber of commerce there has discussed the advisability of placing the entire cape parliament under martial law. The members decided that they were ready to submit to the inconvenience which such a step would entail if it were necessary to the successful ending of the war. They took no definite action, however.

Recent British reverses in South Africa have afforded to the French journalists an opportunity which they have hastened to seize, to point out the folly of Lord Kitchen's assumption that the war is over, says the Paris correspondent of the Times.

The Temps says that after the sacrifice of so many thousand lives, the loss of so many millions of francs, the painful bankruptcy of the liberalism of a great country and the eclipse of its international conscience, Great Britain is as far now as it was on the first day of the war from the realization of its object—the conquest of the two Boer republics.

SEIZED BY BRIGANDS

Story of Capture of American Woman Missionary.

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—Details of the recent capture of Miss Stone, the American missionary, and one of her helpers by brigands in Turkey are given in a letter just received here by the American board of commissioners for foreign missions. The facts became known to one of the missionaries of the board of Samakoo, European Turkey, with whom members of the party with whom Miss Stone and her assistant, Mrs. Tsilka, were traveling when the capture was made, and who fled on being released by the outlaws. They could give no information as to where Miss Stone and her companion were taken, as the two women disappeared in the night and the rest of the party were detained under guard for a time. Finally the robbers relieved these captives of watches and other valuables and departed. The missionaries made their way at once to Samakoo.

According to the story told by these victims the capture was made at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of Sept. 3, while Miss Stone and Mrs. Tsilka, the wife of an Albanian preacher, were traveling with friends from Banako to Djumao. There were fifteen to eighteen in the party. The bandits confronted them in a narrow valley, surrounded them and compelled them to wade a river and ascend wooded mountain side for about an hour. There appeared to be about forty brigands dressed like Turks, but speaking good Bulgarian.

At length a stopping place was reached. The next morning Miss Stone and Mrs. Tsilka were missed, and it was apparent that the main body of the outlaws had departed, leaving only a guard. Later this guard compelled the captives to give up their watches, money and jewelry, after which they disappeared up the mountain, leaving the missionaries free.

The authorities did not learn of the capture until nearly twenty-four hours after it had taken place, and it is thought this gave the brigands all the chance they needed to reach a secure hiding place. It is thought that they might have entered Bulgaria, and the army has been given special instructions to guard the border closely and follow up any trace of the marauders which they may find.

MISTRESS ARRIVES

Executive Mansion now Occupied by Family.

Thirty Days of Mourning to be Observed at White House and All Social Functions to be Suspended Until January 1.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 26.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, the wife of the president, took up her permanent residence in Washington last night, when, as mistress of the white house, she occupied apartments there for the first time. She reached the city about 9:30 o'clock, bringing with her two of the Roosevelt children, a governess, and a housekeeper. Colonel Bingham, the superintendent of public buildings and grounds, met the party at the station at the request of the president, and escorted them to the white house. President Roosevelt met Mrs. Roosevelt and the children at the porte cochere of the white house. Apartments in the southwestern part of the building have been specially fitted up for the presidential family. New carpets and furniture have been bought, and some painting and varnishing done.

President Roosevelt entertained a party of gentlemen at dinner before Mrs. Roosevelt arrived. They included M. G. Seidenbach of the New York Tribune, Hemley Luce of Boston, former Lieutenant Colonel Brodie of the rough riders, and John Barrett, former minister to Siam. They had left the house before Mrs. Roosevelt arrived. For two hours in the late afternoon the president enjoyed a horseback ride, accompanied by Colonel Sanger, the assistant secretary of war.

Secretary Cortelyou announced that President Roosevelt would not hold any official functions at the white house until the public reception on New Year's day. After that date they will take place as formerly. Formal calls of organizations and officials in a body will be deferred until after thirty days from the date of the late president's death. Mourning paper will be used by the heads of the departments for a period of thirty days.

HEARING SHORTENED

Schley Court Adjourned to Attend Judge Wilson's Funeral.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The Schley court of inquiry was in session for only an hour and three-quarters yesterday, adjourning at 12:45 in order to permit its members and others engaged there to attend the funeral of Judge Wilson, late chief counsel for Admiral Schley. Capt. Wise concluded his testimony. Admiral Cotton made a brief statement on recall and Lieut. Spencer S. Wood, who commanded the dispatch boat Dupont during the Spanish war, began his testimony. Machinist Gray, who was in charge of the starboard engines on the day of the battle of Santiago, also testified briefly. He said that on the day of the battle the starboard engines were stopped and the machinery reversed.

Capt. Wise was questioned at considerable length as to what he had done before the arrival of the flying squadron off Santiago toward locating Cervera's fleet in the harbor. He said that while he had satisfied himself of the presence of the Spanish fleet, he had been content to communicate his knowledge to Admiral Schley through Capt. Sigsbee, not considering it necessary to make direct communication with the commander-in-chief.

Jersey Republican Resolutions.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 27.—Franklin Murphy was nominated for governor by the state republican convention. The convention was called to order shortly after noon by Senator E. C. Stokes of Cumberland county. There were 830 delegates. All of the party leaders were here except United States Senator Newell, who, on account of illness, missed his first convention in twenty-six years. The platform says in part:

"The blow which ended the life of our beloved President was cruel, inhuman, and lawless. It was aimed, not at the gentle and lovable McKinley, but at the republic and the majesty of law, which guarantee liberty of person and safety of property. Any doctrine which justifies or encourages assassination is utterly hostile to civil station and the welfare of mankind, and must be no longer tolerated in this country, and we demand and insist that laws, state and national, be enacted for the effective suppression of such teachings."

"The pledge of President Roosevelt that he will continue unbroken the policy of President McKinley has our unqualified approval, and entitles him to our loyal support."

SAMPSON NOT HEARD

Request for Permission to Appear is Denied.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 28.—The Schley court of inquiry yesterday received a letter from Admiral Sampson, asking to be allowed to be represented in the court by counsel. The court refused to grant the request on the ground that "the court does not at this time regard you as a party to the case."

Lieutenant John Hood, who commanded the dispatch boat. The Hawk during the Spanish war, and Captain Bowman H. McCalla, who was in command of the Marblehead, were the principal witnesses. Their testimony dealt with the delivery of dispatches from Sampson to Schley, and both related conversations with Schley.

Captain McCalla expressed the opinion that coaling was feasible off Santiago at the time Schley began his retrograde movement.

Captain Lemly said that he thought he would be able to end the presentation of the government side of the case by the close of next week. He said he would call about fifteen or twenty more witnesses.
